

Complaints to the BBC: April 2012

The BBC answered just over 15,300 complaints from the audience in April 2012. These ranged from a small number of complaints about alleged breaches of editorial guidelines through to a much larger collection of views about programme content and services.

This included complaints regarding the two part instalment of Silent Witness called Redhill, which some viewers felt contained some violent scenes that were too graphic.

The BBC's responses to some recent issues can be read on the BBC Complaints website.